

TEXT WARS

What you'll need

- A large stage or room
- At least 75 minutes to play
- A group of contestants, with cell phones

What you'll get

Text Wars is a 75 minute game show hosted by Jimmy Failla and Ryan Reiss, two national headlining comedians. In Text Wars, audience members casually compete for cash prizes, as the hosts test their “college life” knowledge with trivia questions. When contestants think they might know an answer, they text it in. If they are correct -- and if they've beat everyone else to it -- they win. Text Wars also comes complete with an interactive DJ who will play music and videos to accompany the competition. Total cash payout can reach up to $500, and up to 40 contestants can win.